Goals for 2011
Posted by epearlman - 2010/12/29 11:51

It's that time of year again, and before 2010 ends and 2011 begins, what are your professional priorities and goals for the new year?

==========

Re:Goals for 2011
Posted by rkallit - 2010/12/30 03:13

My Professional Goals for 2011

- To become a smart consultant, & attain (top level)specialist level in my area of work

- I will take every opportunity to participate in ongoing professional development to get a thorough understanding of the new trends in technology space

- With the accumulated past experience, I will continue to study & implement new strategies for enterprise IT development

- To develop my administrative & managerial skills to take a leadership role in my orgranisation

- To make sure I am in sync with my professional goals & achieve short term & long term goals for 2011 :)

Thanks

Ramy Stuart

==========

Re:Goals for 2011
Posted by yoonsie - 2011/01/03 20:01

I just posted a piece in my blog about taking more control of your job search:
http://www.ciozone.com/index.php?option=com_myblog&Itemid=626&show=New-Year-New-Job-Search-Approach.html

Job seekers might do well to resolve to focus more on looking for employers instead of job openings.

==========

Re:Goals for 2011
Posted by pgalen - 2011/01/19 12:03

I need to learn more about internet security so that I can direct my staff to be more proactive in this area. I am concerned at time that they just give me BS and were are not as secure as we should be.

==========

Re:Goals for 2011
Posted by searley - 2011/01/26 16:55

We continue to look for ways to push more workload through the mainframe. Mainframe transaction processing has morphed in recent years to require much more intensive data mining workload. We are also making an effort to leverage application redundancy in order to support an international 24X7 availability

==========